Compete and Succeed: Maximize Your Job Search Self-Marketing

You can't control your age but you can control how you present yourself to employers. This workshop will give you the right tools.

Many experienced, highly-skilled workers of all ages discover barriers as they look for job opportunities in a tight labor market. Too often, employers may make assumptions or have biases that mistakenly screen out some of the best-qualified candidates.

Through a blend of attitude and action, you can overcome those barriers.

This workshop gives you the tools to:

- Develop your “self-marketing” campaign that tells your story most powerfully.
- Conduct employer and networking research that shows how you're a great fit for the job you want.
- Find ways to update your skills and keep them sharp while you are job searching.
